Engaging Children through Stories, Science, and Playful Exploration

Within the pages of a children's book comes a wealth of learning opportunities for young children. Join me as we explore and bring to life some of my favorite children's books using unconventional materials, hands-on science, and a whole lot of imagination.

Featured Presenter:

Michael Fritzen, M.A.

Michael Fritzen has been involved in the informal education field for over 15 years. He has worked at a variety of popular Los Angeles destinations, such as the Natural History Museum of LA County, the Los Angeles Zoo, the Autry Museum, Skirball Cultural Center, the Huntington and the PJ Library. In his spare time, he serves as a docent at the Los Angeles Zoo and Tillman Japanese Garden, as well as serves as on the boards for the California Association for the Education of Young Children, Valley Relics Museum and Museum Educators of SoCal. He holds a Masters in Arts Management/Museum Studies from Claremont Graduate University.
